The Provisions of Your Will Faithfully Carried Out

It is the earnest desire of every thoughtful owner of property to make it of maximum use after his death, to members of his family dependent upon it, and in support of charities and causes in which he may be specially interested.

He knows best the needs of each beneficiary and can himself most wisely distribute his estate; he should therefore assure an exact execution of his wishes by appointing a responsible trust company executor of the will and trustee of the estate.

In the hands of this company his cherished purposes will be faithfully carried out and his estate carefully safeguarded.

THE ALUMNI REVIEW

Number 8

OPINION AND COMMENT

THE REVIEW has purposely refrained from saying anything relative to the most momentous question now before the University—the election of a president to direct it to a higher destiny in the sisterhood of universities, and to make it a greater, more serviceable institution to North Carolina.

However, it believes that as the organ of the alumni, it has the right to express directly and as positively as it can the opinions which it holds.

First of all, it would make clear the fact which it believes is generally accepted in educational circles today: Carolina is the most alert university in the South.

In the second place, the University's income has been more than doubled in the past six years and its responsibilities to the State of North Carolina are correspondingly increased.

In the third place, its student body and faculty and alumni have become accustomed to respond to distinctive leadership and feel a profound pride in Carolina's achievements.

Furthermore, the new order ushered in by the war, calls for wide vision and large ability on the part of educational leaders and especially on the part of the president of this aggressive, effective University.

In view of these facts, it is the duty of the Trustees (a most difficult duty, to be sure) to select as president such a man as will through his training, achievement, ability, and character, insure the continuation of this sort of inspiring leadership.

THE REVIEW has previously commented on the difficulty necessarily experienced by such a large body as that of the Trustees in applying proper standards in the selection of a president. Unfortunately it has no specific formula to offer. But it does emphasize with all the power it possesses the importance of the selection, and the absolute necessity of laying aside all considerations other than those which will insure the University the sort of leadership indicated; for Carolina must go forward. This, we believe, is what the alumni would have us in all seriousness say.

OUR GREATEST CONCERN

Considerable comment has recently appeared in the State press concerning the proposal made by Col. J. Bryan Grimes (see another page) to the Trustees to develop the 550-acre tract of land belonging to the University and lying to the south of the campus. Interest has also been expressed in a plan proposed by Mr. John Sprunt Hill for the development of the land lying immediately east of the campus.

UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

THE REVIEW has not carefully studied the proposed suggestions, but it heartily commends the general principle involved in the proposals. The University has reached the point where it must provide for definite, extensive expansion. The first requirement to this end is to develop an artistic, workable plan which will bring harmony and beauty (as far as they can be secured at this late date) into the present grouping of buildings and will insure an aesthetic future extension of the campus.

We believe that the late President Graham provided for a tentative plan looking to this end, but it did not reach full maturity. Entirely too much is at stake for the matter to be further delayed, and positive, constructive action should be immediately taken.

Readers of THE REVIEW may have observed that in recent issues frequent reference has been made to how other colleges and universities are doing things. We reprint the following excerpt from the Minnesota Alumni Weekly to indicate the terms in which Minnesota legislators visualize building programs:

HOW OTHERS DO THINGS

Tuesday, April 1, the House endorsed the University program by adopting it by a practically unanimous vote. On the question of the ten-year building program the vote was 91 to 9 and on the regular budget the vote was unanimous—without the reduction of a single item. The building program carried with it authority for the Board of Regents to issue certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $560,000 a year for a period of ten years—$6,600,000 in all.

The vote was particularly gratifying to President Burton and others closely connected with the University, and was a vindication of the practice of going and frankly asking for what is needed for the University to make it of the highest use to the people of the State.

Present indications point to a big home-coming on the part of the alumni June 15-18. For two years war has cut the attendance at BACK TO THE HILL Commencement and interest has centered in other things. During the war period thirty-six alumni have lost their lives in the service of their country, and approximately 2,500 have worn the uniform. But with victory won, and the troops returning to their homes, there is a genuine longing on the part of all the members of the big Carolina family to come back home.

To make the reunions of this year—the Victory reunion—thoroughly happy for all, the University has set aside alumni headquarters and will spare no pains to make all returning Carolina men comfortable while here. Information as to particulars can be found in other columns of this issue, and E. R. Rankin, Secretary of the Alumni Association, is prepared to give alumni any assistance desired in arranging for the stay on the campus. And THE REVIEW is always at the service of the alumni for any aid that it can give.

In an earlier issue THE REVIEW expressed the hope that Carolina's war record might be summarized in a special number before the end of the year. Unfortunately, a CAROLINA'S WAR RECORD beginning has only just now been made in assembling information, owing to the fact that the University could not secure the services of any one earlier to prosecute the work. Mr. A. M. Coates has undertaken the task and alumni will be called on at an early date to give information concerning their participation in the war. When the request comes, please let your answer be full and prompt.

On another page THE REVIEW carries a communication from Dr. A. S. Wheeler, of the Department of Chemistry, relative to the editorial entitled Office Machinery appearing in the April issue. Dr. Wheeler makes the point, and supports it with a very interesting statement of facts, that the Alumni Building cannot be made into an acceptable Administration Building, but that it should be used exclusively for recitation purposes. He urges the erection of an adequate Administration Building which will take care of all present administrative offices and will admit of the expansion in the University's business which may be expected in the future. It is undoubtedly true that the office space of practically all the new buildings is too limited, and in the future more liberal space for this purpose should be provided.

At various times throughout the year THE REVIEW has expressed the hope that with the return to normal college activities, the University would lay more emphasis than ATHLETICS AND PUBLIC HEALTH formerly upon general athletics and public health. At the risk of repetition, we return to the subject again, because it is so tremendously important, and—it is so easy to go back to the old ways. Carolina needs to teach the student body the importance of personal physical well-being and public welfare. The Carolina-Virginia game will take care of itself, but every day emphasis should be placed upon being on the tennis courts, or class fields, or the track, or in the gymnasium, or on a long hike. There is no such thing as a vicarious exercise. You take it, and get the benefits from it, or you fail to take it, and pay the penalty.

Similarly, it is highly important that the University, through the proposed Health Director, emphasize the necessity of University men knowing more and caring more about public health conditions.

With the return of Coach Campbell, and the addition of a Health Director and Dr. Thorndike Saville, an expert sanitary engineer, the University should make a notable contribution to the student body and State in these particulars.

An announcement which THE REVIEW very reluctantly makes is that with the conclusion of the present academic year the SUBSCRIPTION PRICE ADVANCED subscription price will be advanced from $1.00 to $1.50 per year. This step is forced upon the management which is confronted with a $500 deficit for the present year incident to the tremendously increased cost of printing during the past eighteen months. For seven years THE REVIEW has been issued at the same price—$1.00 per year—while prices for all that enters into its publication have steadily climbed until they are double what they were when THE REVIEW was established in 1912.

With the increased subscription and the present advertising, it is hoped that the standard of the publication may be maintained or definitely improved; and for these reasons the management takes the step indicated.

While making this announcement, we urge every alumnus who is in arrears for THE REVIEW for the year to remit at once so that further expense may not be incurred in sending statements.

Every year the assistance of alumni is sought in securing the attendance of a large Freshman class.

ALUMNI ASSISTANCE DESIRED This year, as the campaign gets under way, it becomes apparent that the enrollment of new men in September may be considerably reduced unless special effort is put forth. The big, outstanding difficulty in the way of a large enrollment is that the prospective freshmen are not in the high schools. The number of seniors in the high schools of the State this year is only half what it was last. The draft, influenza, and scarcity of labor last fall severely cut high school attendance on the part of the older boys, and consequently the number of those who are prepared for college is correspondingly reduced. This fact makes it especially desirable that alumni give all assistance possible in securing the University's full quota of those who are prepared. Any information of this sort will be gratefully received by Mr. A. M. Coates, who is in charge of this particular work for the University.

On another page we print the list of directors of the Graham Memorial Fund campaign in North Carolina towns and the larger cities in other states, and reproduce a letter to them from President Connor of the Alumni Association. The important hour in this campaign is at hand, and every alumnus, whether a director or not, should see to it that the local campaign is vigorously pushed and that generous contributions are secured. Alumni day is less than three weeks off, and now is the time to act. Read the letter, cooperate with your director, and bring the campaign to a magnificent end.

GRAHAM MEMORIAL FUND And in doing this, get the proper perspective. Harvard has the Harvard Union; Brown, the Brown Union; and the University of Pennsylvania, Hous- ton Hall. Michigan has put $750,000 into such a building. Cornell is asking for $1,000,000 for a Memorial Hall. Minnesota proposed $1,250,000. Vanderbilt expects to secure $300,000 in May, and has only recently secured through alumni $1,000,000 as an endowment fund. This is the first call Carolina has made in fifteen years for a big university need. Let the answer be emphatic and let the amount be largely oversubscribed.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF TRUSTEES MEETS

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the University in Raleigh on April 4th, a committee of five was appointed to investigate the proposal to develop the 550-acre tract of woodland immediately south of the University campus.

Governor Bickett appointed as members of the committee J. Bryan Grimes, of Raleigh; George Stephens, of Charlotte; James A. Gray, of Winston-Salem; John Sprunt Hill, of Durham; and Haywood Parker, of Asheville. The committee is to report its findings to the Board of Trustees at the regular meeting. The idea suggested by Secretary of State Grimes, is to build homes for professors and to build other structures, provide a park and develop property in accordance with the potential needs of the University.

Prof. Saville Elected

Prof. Thorndike Saville was elected associate professor of sanitary engineering at the University. He comes with a fine record, having received degrees from Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Dartmouth, and having served in the engineering corps of the United States Army as first lieutenant.

Visiting Committee Appointed

Stanley Winborne, of Murfreesboro, and Zeb V. Walser, of Lexington, were named as members of University visitors' committee, other members being W. N. Everett, of Rockingham; Graham Kenan, of New York; Clem G. Wright, of Greensboro, and J. C. Kittrell, of Henderson.

Attending the meetings were Governor Bickett, Secretary of State Grimes, Attorney General James S. Manning, Francis D. Winston, of Bertie County; John W. Graham, of Hillsboro; Dr. R. H. Lewis, Dr. Chas. Lee Smith, and R. D. W. Connor, of Raleigh, and H. W. Chase, chairman of the University faculty.

Professor Branson Kenan Professor

Prof. E. C. Branson, of the department of Rural Economics and Sociology, was made a Kenan professor.

Dr. George Howe, of the department of Latin, attended a meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South at Atlanta, April 10-12.

TEN CLASSES PREPARE FOR REUNIONS

Big Plans are Under Way for Reunions of Maximum Interest at Commencement

Extensive plans are being made on the "Hill" for the return of the classes, ranging from 1859 until 1918, which will hold special reunions at the approaching commencement. The committees in charge of the reunions from the respective classes urge that every member of the classes of 1859, 1869, 1879, 1889, 1894, 1899, 1904, 1909, 1914, and 1918, make detailed plans in advance to be present at the reunions, which this year promise to be more important and interesting than ever. In addition, every alumnus, no matter whether his class holds a special reunion or not, is urged to be present for the commencement exercises, and for the general gathering of the alumni which will be held on Tuesday morning, June 17th, Alumni Day, in Gerrard Hall.

Service Men to be Back

A feature of special interest at this commencement will be the Victory Reunion of alumni from service. This special feature will come on the afternoon of Alumni Day. Every Carolina man who was in military service—and the list of Carolina men in service numbers more than 2,250—is especially urged to be present at this time and participate in this Victory Reunion. The program which is being worked out for this occasion will be of such a nature as to make this Victory Reunion a feature of keen interest to every alumnus.

Alumni Conference Scheduled

The program for commencement which has recently been announced includes many features which will strongly appeal to alumni. A special program for Alumni Day has been arranged, this varying somewhat from the program of former Alumni Days. The special reunion exercises of the various classes will not be held in Gerrard Hall on the morning of Alumni Day as heretofore, but in their place a meeting of the General Alumni Association has been called for 10:45 Tuesday morning, in Gerrard Hall. President Connor, of the General Alumni Association, will preside over this meeting, and the program of this general conference of the alumni will include a review of the year's activities by Dr. H. W. Chase, chairman of the faculty, and brief talks on the Graham Memorial Fund, the Alumni Loyalty Fund and the ALUMNI REVIEW. In addition, it is expected that plans of importance will be made at this conference for furthering in a systematic fashion the work of the General Alumni Association throughout the State and country. Every alumnus who can possibly be present is urged to attend this meeting. The Alumni Luncheon will be held at 1:00 o'clock in Swain Hall. As a feature of the luncheon, there will be short talks by representatives of the ten, twenty-five, forty and fifty-year reunion classes. At 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon the Victory Reunion of the alumni from service will be held. At 5:00 o'clock on Emerson Field and on the class field, there will be baseball games between the different classes holding reunions. The meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held in Chemistry Hall at 8:00 p.m. The inter-society debate will be held in Gerrard Hall at 8:30 o'clock. The exercises of Alumni Day will be concluded with a reception to the Senior Class at 10:00 p.m. in the Gymnasium.

Banquet Halls and Quarters Provided

Adequate arrangements are being made to take care for the physical well-being and comfort of all alumni returning to commencement. All of the alumni returning to class reunions will be housed together in various sections of the dormitories.

General headquarters will be established at University Inn, and every alumnus is expected to register there upon his arrival. In addition, the classes holding special reunions will have special headquarters in the dormitories. Placards will be put up denoting each particular class headquarters. Dormitories have been assigned for the use of the special reunion classes as follows: 1859—Infirmery; 1869—Infirmery; 1879—Old East; 1889—Old East; 1894—Old East; 1899—Old West; 1904—Old West; 1909—Pettigrew; 1914—Battle; 1918—Carr.

Circle These Dates

Make plans now for the reunions at commencement and pass the word to your friends, clients, customers, patients, or whomsoever it may concern, that on June 15-18 you will be attending the alumni reunions and the commencement exercises at Chapel Hill.

COMMENCEMENT, 1919

DURHAM WINS THE AYCOCK CUP

Miss Aura Holton and Leo Brady Defeat Miss Sudie Creech and William Hosea of the Goldsboro High School, in Seventh Annual Contest

The seventh annual final contest of the High School Debating Union came to a very successful conclusion on May 2nd in Memorial Hall, when Leo Brady and Miss Aura Holton, representing the Durham high school, triumphed over all others and won the award of the Aycock Memorial Cup. Their opponents in this final debate were Miss Sudie Creech and William Hosea of the Goldsboro high school. The query was: Resolved, That the Government of the United States should adopt a policy of requiring one year of military training of all able-bodied men before they reach the age of 21. Goldsboro advocated the affirmative and Durham defended the negative.

This year's contest, in point of interest and keen enthusiasm shown by the contestants and the spirit of good sportsmanship evidenced, was one of the most notable in the history of the Union. One hundred and sixty-four youthful debaters representing forty-one high schools came to the University for the final contest. Their stay at the University was a very enjoyable one and the knowledge of the University which they received will prove helpful to them and to the University. The debaters represented all sections of the State. One delegation came from as far east as Dare County. There were present seventy-five girl debaters.

The dates of May 1st and 2nd were set apart as "High School Week" in the University's calendar.

Other features of this week were the seventh annual inter-scholastic track meet and the fourth annual inter-scholastic tennis tournament.

The Preliminaries

The 164 debaters who participated in the final contest had all been successful in their triangular debates on April 4th, in which series 720 debaters representing 180 schools in 75 counties participated.

The first general meeting of debaters and teachers was held in the auditorium of the Peabody Building on Thursday afternoon, May 1st. Professor N. W. Walker presided over this meeting and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. This year for the first time there were rejoinders in the first preliminaries, which were held on Thursday night. There were twelve sections and each team was paired off by lot with an opposing team. From each section one affirmative and one negative team were chosen for the second preliminary on Friday morning, May 2nd. The schools which had teams making the second preliminary on the affirmative were: Carthage, Angier, Louisburg, Roanoke Rapids, Durham, Aulander, Belhaven, Mount Olive, Lincolnton, Goldsboro, Winston-Salem and Advance; on the negative: Rockingham, Mount Olive, Louisburg, Canton, Bethel, Newton, Stony Creek, Durham, Clemmons, Selma, Mount Gilead and Elizabeth City. The schools having teams in the second preliminary, both affir-ative and negative, were: Durham, Mount Olive and Louisburg.

Final Debate

The audience which came to hear the final debate on Friday evening, May 2nd, between Durham and Goldsboro filled Memorial Hall to its capacity. It has been estimated that the audience numbered 2,000 persons. Dr. H. W. Chase, chairman of the Faculty, presided over the debate. Dr. Chase expressed the University's gratification at having the visitors present from the high schools and pointed out the splendid value of the High School Debating Union as a developer of enlightened public discussion in our democracy.

The speakers on both sides presented their arguments forcefully and to such good effect as to draw forth rounds of applause from the large audience. The rejoinders were spirited, and throughout the debate the speakers gave exhibition of having an accurate knowledge of the issues involved in the query. The decision of the judges, Messrs. H. H. Williams, L. P. McGehee, C. L. Raper, D. D. Carroll and W. S. Bernard, was unanimous in favor of the negative.

Professor N. W. Walker, chairman of the High School Debating Union committee, presented the Ayeock Memorial Cup, the trophy provided by the inter-collegiate debaters of the University, to the winners. Professor Walker paid tribute to the high school forces of the State who had made the debates a success this year in spite of great difficulties brought about by the war and influenza epidemic. He spoke of the purposes of the Debating Union.

This year for the second time, gold medals appropriately inscribed and bearing the University's seal, were presented to the four debaters who participated in the final debate. Established by President Graham and Dean M. C. S. Noble last year, these medals were continued this year by Dean Noble and the Secretary of the Union.

Dean A. H. Patterson presented the medals and cups to the winners in the inter-scholastic track meet. Dean Patterson referred to each medal winner as one who had rendered service of a distinctive sort.

Immediately after the debate a reception was tendered the visitors by the Di and Phi societies in Bynum Gymnasium. This was the closing feature in the program of entertainment.

Success of the Debating Union

Since its organization in 1913, the High School Debating Union has met with remarkable success. It has grown and has carried with it helpful results for debaters, the schools, the communities and the University.

GRAHAM MEMORIAL CAMPAIGN

To be Pushed to a Speedy and Successful Conclusion—Final Drive Started May 19

With the view of pushing the Graham Memorial Campaign to a speedy and successful conclusion, R. D. W. Connor, president of the General Alumni Association, has sent out letters to the directors of the movement, as follows:

The most important period in the campaign for the Graham Memorial Fund has arrived; the time in which the plans of the Central Committee must be carried to a successful end.

The final success of this splendid movement, you can easily see, depends on you and your fellow Directors. In order that your report may be on time and that your community may go over the top in a big way, the Central Committee is asking that you start your final drive the week beginning Monday, May 19, and that you push it without let up to a successful conclusion.

The reports of the Directors of the Graham Memorial Fund will be a feature of Alumni Day at Chapel Hill, and I trust that when yours is read out from the platform it will represent the real Carolina way of putting across a big Carolina movement.

I also wish to urge the necessity of large subscriptions if the desired amount is to be secured. This is the first time in fifteen years that Alumni or citizens have been called on for this sort of aid, and certainly no cause was ever worthier than the honoring of the life and work of Edward Kidder Graham in a way that will fill the University's greatest present day need.

In presenting this phase of the subject, keep in mind that the senior class now in the University averaged practically $100 per member, and that other subscriptions went to $200 and $500. What shall be the response of the Alumni and citizens to this challenge of the college boys? The terms of payment make large subscriptions possible, and the fact that they may be made in Liberty Bonds makes possible still larger contributions.

The Alumni of the University and interested citizens of the state are counting on you in this extremely important undertaking.

OFFICE MACHINERY SUGGESTED IS INADEQUATE EDITOR, ALUMNI REVIEW:

SIR:—I have just read your editorials on Meeting the Issue, etc., with considerable interest. Permit me to express the conviction that your editorial on Office Machinery does not adequately present the situation. You will agree with me that the administration is the heart, in one sense, of the University, and only by having this adequately housed and organized can our best work be done. I know that the chemical department has often suffered owing to the lack of proper business arrangements of the administration.

The University is certain to have a great growth. The Alumni Building, if designed for administration purposes, has been a gross failure, recognized as such even by visitors, to say nothing of us who suffer. No rearrangements of the Alumni Building will ever fill the bill. It is not large enough to start with and the tearing out and putting in of partitions will never be anything but makeshifts. However, if the building is abandoned, it will serve very well indeed as a recitation hall, excellent rooms being possible even in the basement.

A much larger building for administrative purposes is necessary for the future University and it would be criminal not to look well ahead. Such a building must provide for the following purposes and others doubtless may be thought of:

Main Floor—President's office, president's waiting room, president's secretary, treasurer's office, treasurer's brick vault, business manager's office, business manager's waiting room, business manager's secretary, several offices for deans, registrar's offices, faculty room (one purpose only), a room for small receptions.

Second Floor—Several faculty committee rooms, various publication offices, general mailing room, book binding room, ample store rooms for publications.

Basement—Electrical shop, electrical store room, carpenter shop, lumber stock room, plumber's shop, plumber's store room, superintendent of grounds and buildings, shipping room, receiving room, elevator.

When you consider that these rooms should be large enough to provide for expansion within each room as time goes on, you can readily see the necessity for a large building. Such a building should be an imposing one easily recognized as one of special importance. It should have a tower with a clock. An excellent site would be the location of the Inn and the old Chapel Hill Hotel, though it should be set considerably back from the street.

Yours for progress,

A. S. WHEELER,

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 24, 1919.

CAROLINA MEN ASSEMBLE IN PARIS

An interesting get-together meeting of the Carolina men stationed in Paris was recently held in the French capital, according to information contained in a communication from Pvt. Curtis F. Crissman, Sorbonne University, A. P. O. 702, Paris, France. The following men were present at the meeting:

Lowry Axley, '13, 1st Lt., 161st Inf.

Henry R. Totten, '13, 2nd Lt., 318th F. A.

Thomas C. Boushall, '15 (civilian), International Banking Work.

George F. Taylor, '15, Sgt., 5th Division, Laboratory.

W. P. Wicker, '15, Pvt., 1st class, 33rd Engineers.

Joseph J. Harris, '16, Pvt., Co. E., 105th Engrs.

J. L. Coeckerham, law '16, Navy.

Curtis F. Crissman, '18, Pvt., 1st class.

Walter E. Wiles, '19, Sgt., 1st class, M. D. Q. M. Depot No. 8.

Chas. J. Taylor, '19, Sgt., 322nd Inf.

E. F. Parker, 2nd Lt., 305 M. G. Battalion (was formerly instructor in French at the University).

The following list contains the names of those known to be in Paris who were unable to attend the meeting:

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Lt. H. G. Baity, Captain Curtis Bynum, Sgt. Aubrey Elliott, Sgt. Bill Graves, Sgt. P. E. Green, Private H. G. Singleton, Bill Keesler, Lieut. Bruce Carraway, John Hall Manning, Jerry Zollicoffer, Allison Cooper.

Most of the above list are in school in Paris, Private Crissman writes. He was detailed (not elected) as secretary of the Paris Alumni Group. He expects to work up a big meeting of the Carolina alumni in Paris at some early date. The men will be there in school until the end of June.

THE REVIEW WITH THE MEN IN SERVICE

During and since the war the managers of THE REVIEW have made every reasonable effort to send it to Carolina men in the service both at home and abroad wherever the address could be ascertained.

Conclusive proof of this statement is furnished in the following message from Capt. Arnold Shamskin, of the Medical Corps, with the 53rd Infantry, A. E. F., France:

"Though I have neglected to inform you about the change in my address since I left the States in July, 1918, the ALUMNI REVIEW has reached me everywhere I was in France. In the Vosges mountains, on the Verdun front, and in the rest areas this publication has always found me somehow. As I do not expect to be back home within the next six months, you will kindly send THE REVIEW to me."

EXPANSION OF GROUNDS PROPOSED

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina yesterday appointed a committee to investigate and report at the June meeting of the Board of Trustees on the feasibility of developing 550 acres of woodland adjoining the campus of the University. The scheme has long been advocated by Col. J. Bryan Grimes, member of the Executive Committee, who argues the growing congested conditions of the campus as a reason for the needed expansion.

The committee to investigate is composed of Colonel Grimes; Mr. George Stephens, of Charlotte; Mr. James A. Gray, of Winston-Salem; Mr. John Sprunt Hill, of Durham; and Mr. Haywood Parker, of Asheville.

Colonel Grimes had written letters to the Trustees of the University and many of the alumni proposing the expansion idea. Likewise, he has secured from virtually all the universities of the country diagrams of their campus and buildings, with expressions of opinion as to expansion.

The University men showed marked eagerness for the scheme, while the university authorities of other states were almost united in the opinion that had there been earlier foresight of present conditions the trend would have been toward expansion rather than toward centralization of the college community about the principal buildings.

Colonel Grimes' Letter

Colonel Grimes' scheme as set forth in his letter to the University men, follows:

"Adjoining the 48-acre campus the University of North Carolina owns 550 acres of woodland. As this land is well set in magnificent oaks, its scenic beauty is not surpassed in central North Carolina.

"For many years I have felt that the University should develop this property. Many of the older universities are now hampered by grounds that are too small and are making efforts to secure more space and breathing room.

"The University should be our educational center and a sentiment is fast growing to observe the intention of the Constitution (Article 9, Section 14), and at no very distant day we may expect to see not only additional buildings, but new schools, institutions and colleges clustered around a greater University.

"The University of North Carolina, with grounds second to no institution in America, is scrambling its buildings into a congested area, while it has hundreds of unused acres suitable for building sites.

Expand Toward South

"Instead of pressing and crowding towards the village street, it should handsomely expand toward the south, as the original plans contemplated.

"It would be greatly to the interest of the University to have a large park laid off on the south side of the campus. In this park, between the avenues and streets, permanent park spaces running the full length of the property could be laid off. Squares adjoining the present campus would be reserved for future University buildings. Future fraternities and club houses could be arranged for on open squares. A residential section could be developed with large (one or two-acre) lots, giving a rural or suburban effect and each residence could face an open square, or parked place. These large lots could be leased on long, easy terms as home sites for professors, student apartment houses, student homes, etc. In time it might be found a good investment to build houses to lease to professors. A section could be divided into residential lots that could be let in long leases for homes for desirable people. Such a residential park would attract people of means, who desired homes in quiet, cultured and intellectual surroundings.

"If other institutions or colleges should be connected with the University there are hundreds of acres for their location.

Have Landscape Gardener

"A competent, broad-minded and sympathetic landscape architect could lay off college and park grounds unequalled anywhere in this country.

"The avenues, parks, squares, circles and vistas would bear names of men associated with University life and history.

"Besides the direct material benefits to the University from such a University and residential park, the indirect benefit to the whole State would be great, as each student would be influenced by the spaciousness and beauty of his surrounding and would carry these ideals back to his home with him.

"With the new era that has dawned for the University, now is the time for this development."—News and Observer, April 5.

WILSON WINS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Wilson high school, represented by William Finch and Raymond Matthews, was the winner of the fourth annual inter-scholastic tennis tournament held at the University on May 2nd. The Wilson high school won both in singles and doubles. Two trophy cups will be awarded the Wilson high school. Other schools taking part in the inter-scholastic tennis tournament were: Charlotte, Durham and Ruth-erford College.

FRIENDSHIP WINS TRACK MEET

The Friendship High School won the seventh annual interscholastic track meet of the State held at the University on May 2nd. The Friendship contestants piled up a total score of 49 points, followed by Chapel Hill with 27, Hillsboro 9, High Point 6, and Huntersville 3.

CARMICHAEL TO CAPTAIN QUINT

Billy Carmichael, of Durham, was recently elected captain of the Carolina basketball team for next season. Carmichael played a star game at forward during the past two seasons and led his teammates in the number of points scored this season.

With the splendid material already on hand, in addition to several former varsity men who will be back in college next fall, the Carolina squad of next season will undoubtedly be stronger than the past season's team, which is saying a good deal, for the past season was a great success.

THE UNIVERSITY IN LETTERS

"Keynote Studies in Keynote Books of the Bible" (Fleming H. Revell Co., New York and Chicago, 1919), by C. Alphonso Smith, Head of the Department of English in the United States Naval Academy, embodies the James Sprunt Lectures delivered at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., in March, 1917. This lectureship was founded by Mr. James Sprunt of Wilmington, N. C., through the donation of the sum of thirty thousand dollars in 1911. The aim of the lectures is to bring the Bible "home to men's business and bosoms," and the sacred books dealt with are Genesis, Esther, Job, Hosea, John's Gospel, Romans, Phillipians, Revelation. These chapters are preceded by an introductory essay, "The Keynote Method," setting forth the guiding principle of the work. In each book, the author seeks to discover and to exhibit "some central and commanding thought that gives coherence and vitality to the whole." The author is emboldened to employ this method of criticism because he believes that "the time is surely coming when all great literature will be studied in this way." The first chapter of Genesis, according to the author, abolished mythology throughout the civilized world, it "announced unity, order, and progression in nature." The chapter on Esther is a striking piece of literary criticism and analysis: for the author conclusively shows that Esther meets Poe's requirement of the modern short story and, so, stands as a sort of anticipation of this "modern" form of art. "As in Genesis, so in Esther, such character is a type but also an individual;" and it is these type qualities which are chiefly stressed.

Esther is conceived as "a bit of constructive idealism faultlessly conceived and faultlessly embodied." Job wrought out in the forge of his own experience the great truth expressed by Froude: "The moral life of man is like the flight of a bird in the air. He is sustained only by effort, and when he ceases to exert himself he falls." With the saying, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him," the book passes at once "from the category of the Greek drama, governed by remorseless fatality, to the plane of the Shakespearean drama, where personal will and faith and hope have a chance to win out over an imposed and implacable doom." The central thought of Hosea Professor Smith finds in the words: "For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings"; and from Hosea may be said to date a religion that "has God at its center and glad service as its expression." And so—following the method outlined in the opening chapter—the author goes through each of the remaining books—John, Romans, Phillipians, Revelation. The volume is stimulating in thought, rich in suggestive comparisons, and packed with literary allusions at once indicative and illustrative.

A volume just from the Princeton University Press is Socialism and American Ideals by William Starr Myers (U. N. C., class of 1897), Professor of Politics in Princeton University. The college mates of Professor Myers at Chapel Hill will read with interest the dedication: "To the memory of Samuel Selden Lamb in partial fulfilment of a mutual promise made at dear old Chapel Hill." Lamb was a brilliant young law student, who was paid the high honor of election to the editorship of The Tar Heel; and his early death cut short a career which was truly brilliant in its promise.

In regard to the book's general thesis, Professor Myers declares that Socialism is fundamentally un-American, since it is in violation of the basic principles of American democracy. It is, he avers, in conflict with the idea of equality of opportunity. Socialism he finds to mean a substitution of governmental judgment for that of the individual and for individual ambition as well. "The ideal or object of the United States is to give equality of opportunity for each individual to work out his or her own salvation in a political, a moral or an economic sense." Socialism would help people in spite of themselves; and this, he maintains, inevitably pauperizes and atrophies human character. In both Socialism and Pacifism, which he lumps together, the essential idea is that the individual should mentally 'lie down' and

'let George do it.' " In addition, he finds Socialism not only essentially un-American but essentially un-democratic. "A democracy," he says, "means a government by public opinion, and this opinion is the result of the co-operation impulse or community feeling of the people of a free country—a people who are given the opportunity to think for themselves, and are not thought for by a divinely constituted government." Whereas Socialism means the "substitution of government or official judgment for that of the individual."

PEACE-MAKING IN CAROLINA

The following appeared in The New Republic of May 10th, which speaks for itself:

Sir: I have recently received a publication which seems interesting enough to warrant my calling it to your attention. It is the report of a "Peace Conference" held at the University of North Carolina.

There is a class in the University known as English 21, a course in English composition under the direction of Dr. Edwin Greenlaw. Three months ago this class was organized into a Peace Conference. Different groups were created to represent the various nations. The various issues of indemnities, boundaries and a League of Nations were investigated by the delegates of the different "nations," and a report was made to the conference as a whole. Here there was discussion—and a final settlement by vote. What the conference decided upon has been made into the pamphlet which attracted my attention.

I do not propose to compare North Carolina's peace settlement with what has been done in Paris (though, in my own judgment, North Carolina might stand the comparison). There are other conferences ahead of us. Doesn't the North Carolina plan provide a good pattern for other universities?

THE ALUMNI LUNCHEON

The Alumni Luncheon will be held at 1:00 o'clock on Alumni Day, Tuesday, June 17, at Swain Hall. This occasion promises to be one of the most interesting and enjoyable features of commencement. Ladies are invited. The price per plate is one dollar. Reservations may be secured from E. R. Rankin, Secretary.

Chas. T. Woollen, business manager of the University and graduate manager of athletics, was signally honored in his election as first vice-president of the South Atlantic Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association at the annual meeting of this organization.

BASEBALL SEASON A SUCCESS

The baseball season, which came to a close on May 14, was a most successful one for the Carolina team, in spite of the loss of the Virginia series. Of the 21 games played, 12 were won, seven were lost, and two were tied. Carolina scored 89 runs to her opponents' 67 tallies. Especially successful was the Northern trip, four out of the six contests being victories for the university squad.

All of this year's squad, with the exception of Herty, Powell and Bryant, will return to college next fall. With such an aggregation on hand, together with the large number of first year men who will be eligible for the team next season, it is confidently expected that Carolina will have one of the strongest teams in the South when the spring of 1920 opens.

To Coach William Loureey, who not only worked hard with the players at all times, but taught them some baseball, goes much of the credit for putting out this season's winning team.

Luther Hodges, manager of the squad, also cooperated with the men whenever possible.

The scores of all the games played this season follow:

- March 29—Carolina, 4; Oak Ridge, 0.
 - April 2—Carolina, 7; Camp Bragg, 6.
 - April 4—Carolina, 4; Elon, 1.
 - April 5—Carolina, 4; Durham Moose, 1.
 - April 7—Carolina, 2; N. C. State, 1.
 - April 9—Carolina, 1; Elon, 4.
 - April 10—Carolina, 5; V. P. I., 0.
 - April 12—Carolina, 1; Virginia, 2.
 - April 14—Carolina, 3; Virginia, 3 (10 innings).
 - April 19—Carolina, 0; Moose, 2.
 - April 21—Carolina, 4; Davidson, 3 (15 innings).
 - April 22—Carolina, 7; Virginia, 1.
 - April 23—Carolina, 9; Hampden-Sidney, 3.
 - April 24—Carolina, 13; Va. Medicals, 1.
 - April 25—Carolina, 5; W. & L., 6.
 - April 26—Carolina, 4; Johns-Hopkins, 13.
 - May 3—Carolina, 4; Virginia, 11.
 - May 7—Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 0.
 - May 9—Carolina, 4; Wake Forest, 7 (15 innings).
 - May 10—Carolina, 0; Trinity, 0 (15 innings).
 - May 14—Carolinas, 3; Trinity, 2.
- Carolina's total percentage in games, .632.

The squad was composed of the following: Powell, Robbins, Roberts, Younce, Saunders, Feimster, Joyner, Lewis, Bryant, Tenney, Herty, Wilson, Milton, Fields, Swift, Cordon, Sims, McLean.

The team as a whole was at bat 703 times and secured 140 hits, making a percentage of .199, and as a whole the team fielded .923.

John V. Brookshire, '18

—Wounded in France just before the Armistice. Was an ambulance driver. He entered the second Oglethorpe Camp.

CITATIONS

Robert Bruce Mason, '13

—Awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action. He held the rank of captain in the 1st Machine Gun Battalion, 3d Division. His colors received the French decoration of the Legion of Honor. Durham was his home.

William Oliver Smith, '16

—Received an Army citation and awarded the Croix de Guerre with the Palm, by order of Marshall Petain, Commander-in-Chief of the French Army, for extraordinary heroism in action. The citation reads:

"First Lieutenant William O. Smith, 318th Machine Gun Battalion. An officer brave and full of dash. On the 9th and 10th of November, 1918, he led his section with the waves of infantry. Taking a position in the German lines, he defended the captured ground against superior forces during a violent counter attack in the course of which he was twice wounded."

In this battle the 318th Machine Gun Battalion, commanded by Major E. J. Lyman, was serving with the 20th French Army Corps. Nine members of this Battalion were decorated—two, Lieutenant Smith and Private Murphy, receiving army citations carrying the Palm in addition to the War Cross.

Lieutenant Reynold T. Allen, '16, of the 321st Infantry, in a recent letter to his brother, Connor Allen, said of his University classmate: "Oliver carried off many honors in the Meuse-Argonne Drive. He was not with my regiment but I heard about it. It is true that he was captured but only after being wounded to such an extent that the Boche refused to kill him when they had the opportunity because they admired his bravery. He volunteered to cover the withdrawal of a company which was about to be annihilated by a German battalion. He did this with eight men, all of whom were killed or wounded. He fought to the last though wounded."

Andrews Scroggs Nelson, '16

—Awarded the French Croix de Guerre in recognition of heroic conduct in action. He was a member of the '16 law class. Had been overseas 12 months and held the rank of first lieutenant. He is at present at his home in Lenoir, N. C.

Edward Lee Spencer, '17

—Awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action in France. He entered the first Oglethorpe Camp in the spring of 1917. Returned from overseas in February and is now at Camp Upton, N. Y.

J. Graham Ramsay, '17

—Awarded the French Croix de Guerre in recognition of heroic conduct in action on last September 28. He held the rank of first lieutenant.

Lieutenant Ramsay returned from overseas service this spring and is at present on the Hill.

WITH THE CLASSES

—Col. Robert Bingham, head of the Bingham Military School, of Asheville, said to be the University's oldest living alumnus, addressed a mass meeting of the alumni in Asheville on April 17, when plans were made for the starting of the Graham Memorial Campaign in that city.

1859

—This class holds its 60-year reunion at Commencement. Every member is urged to be on hand.

1860

—E. S. Martin is a lawyer of Wilmington and chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Wilmington Public Library.

1869

—The 50-year reunion of '69 will be held during the coming Commencement, June 15-18. Every member will do his best to be present.

1877

—Dr. Julian M. Baker, a prominent physician of Tarboro, who entered the University as a junior with its re-opening in 1875, promises to be present for Commencement. He entered at the same time as the members of the class of '79, who hold a reunion this year. Dr. Baker is very anxious to meet all of his old classmates again and insists that all now living return to the Hill to help celebrate.

1879

—All members of '79 are urged to be present for the 40-year reunion to be held during the coming Commencement, June 15-18.

1882

—Dr. E. A. Alderman is president of the University of Virginia.

—Dr. B. F. McMillan, of Red Springs, a former legislator, is now a practicing physician of Red Springs.

1884

—Dr. Alphens Fields is a practicing physician of Norfolk, Va.

1885

—R. S. Neal is owner of Somerset Plantation, of Creswell.

1886

—Dr. Lewis J. Battle is a prominent physician of Washington, D. C. He regrets that the reunions of '86 are not held more frequently.

1888

—Dr. W. J. Battle is head of the department of Greek, of the University of Cincinnati, Ohio.

—J. C. Martin is practicing law in Asheville.

—Members of '89 will return to Chapel Hill during Commencement Week, June 15-18, for the reunion. Write your classmates to come along.

—In a letter from Captain Edward Y. Keesler to his mother, Mrs. Edward L. Keesler, of Charlotte, is given an interesting account of a visit from the King and Queen of Belgium to Chaumont, France, where Captain Keesler is stationed.

Prior to the coming of the King and Queen, Captain Keesler took a ride to General Pershing's chateau to get the lay of the land for parking a number of cars when the King and Queen arrived. The royal party expected to take a number of side trips, which Captain Keesler was to investigate ahead of time. The King and Queen expected to arrive March 19 in an aeroplane but the weather was bad and they reached Chaumont the following day in their car, the King driving and Queen sitting beside him.

On Thursday, Captain Keesler had seven cars lined up at the general's chateau and Captain Keesler was the pilot who led the procession. Chaumont was decorated with flags and banners and the streets were lined with French and American soldiers, who presented arms with fixed bayonets as the King and General Pershing alighted. They returned to General Allen's chateau for lunch. General Allen is in command of the Eighth Army Corps. The band in the yard played the Belgium national air. The royal party had luncheon at General Allen's headquarters and the others lunched at the officers' mess at the Eighth Army Corps.

—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Louise Nickerson, of Easton, Md., to John Lindsay Morehead, of Charlotte, the wedding to take place in the early summer. Mr. Morehead was in the aviation branch of the service and received his training at Park flying field, Memphis, Tenn., being commissioned lieutenant and was afterwards instructor at Souther Field, Americus, Ga. He was recently mustered out of the service and holds an important position with the Leaksville Woolen Mills.

—Lieut. H. A. Whitfield, who was wounded by gas in the fighting around Chateau Thierry and laid up in the hospital for quite a while, has returned from overseas and has resumed the practice of law in Chapel Hill.

HUGH B. HESTER, Secretary, 12th F. A., A. E. F., German

—Oliver M. Litaker, law '16, who before entering the held the position of cashier of the First National Bank Thomasville, N. Y.

—Lee Edwards, who entered the navy as pharmacist's mate, third class, last May, was mustered out of the service in February.

—Sergt. Fred M. Patterson is now a patient at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington. He lost a leg while serving in the 113th Field Artillery in the St. Mihiel drive. He was honored at an informal reception at the National Press Club shortly after his arrival at the hospital.

“Sergt. Fred M. Patterson, 113th Field Artillery, now in Ward 65 and a former graduate of the University of North Carolina, is another of our baseball stars. Patterson, while a member of the University's baseball team, made an enviable record and became known throughout the state, which resulted in his being elected captain in 1916. ‘But I guess I am through now; my left pin is gone; but it's great sport,’ says the sergeant; ‘but I have to wait for my artificial limb and learn the orthopedic slide to second base before I am a free man.’”

—Joe Huske was promoted to the rank of major before the armistice.

NECROLOGY

—Col. James Turner Morehead, the oldest member of the Greensboro bar and one of the ablest lawyers of the State, died at his home in Greensboro, on Friday night, April 11, following a short illness from pneumonia. He was 82 years of age. Throughout the war between the states he served with distinction, being promoted from lieutenant on up to the colonelcy of the 53rd North Carolina regiment. His last engagement was at Hare's Hill, Petersburg, where he was taken prisoner after invading the lines of the enemy. He was thrice wounded during the war. At the end of the war he returned home and was one of the leaders in the great work of reconstruction. In 1866 he served in the house of commons from Guilford County. From 1872 to 1875 he served as senator from Guilford and when Lieutenant-Governor Caldwell became governor was elected president of the senate and discharged the duties of lieutenant governor. In 1882 he again served in the senate the people of Guilford, and was often impertuned by his party to accept higher honors, but refused.

1888

—Sheriff H. M. Rowe was stricken with apoplexy on June 29 and died on August 4, 1918. He lived in Wilson, N. C.

1904

—The death from influenza at Atlanta on Wednesday, Dec. 18th, of Branner Gilmer brought sorrow to a very wide circle of friends. He was 33 years of age, the only son of former Attorney General and Mrs. Robert D. Gilmer, and inherited brains and character from both sides of the house. On his mother's side he was a lineal descendant of James R. Love, pioneer and patriot, and chief land-holder of early Western North Carolina. Branner Gilmer graduated from the public school at Waynesville, N. C., and spent a year at the famous Bingham School at Asheville and a year at the State A. and M. College at Raleigh. Then followed four fruitful years at the State University where he was a member of Psi chapter of the Sigma Nu Fraternity and graduated with the degree of LL. B. Pursuing post graduate work in law for a year at George Washington University at the Capital, he received the degree of Master of Laws. He passed the North Carolina examination for law license before he was 21 and received the license on his 21st birthday. In association with his distinguished father and later with Mr. Felix Alley also, he was for about eleven years actively and successfully engaged in law practice at Waynesville, appearing in noted cases and earning high praise for his skill in the presentation of eloquent argument before the juries of Haywood county.

Appointed early in 1918 to a most responsible position with the Department of Justice of the United States at Atlanta, he exerted his legal talents with signal ability toward the winning of the war. Surviving him, besides his father, mother and sister, are his wife, who was Miss Maud Duval Semmes, of Memphis, a relative of the famous Admiral Semmes, and their child. Greater fame and usefulness surely awaited Branner Gilmer, a reflection which adds to the grief felt for his loss. He had a great heart and he loved and was beloved by his fellow-men.

TWENTY YEARS EXPERIENCE IN PLAN-NING SCHOOL AND COLLEGE BUILDINGS

FIFTY— and tortured by regrets

“DO you suppose,” cried Napoleon, as he stood with Gourgaud on St. Helena, “do you suppose when I wake at night I have not bad moments—when I think of what I was and what I am?”

He was fifty; and at fifty the race of men divides into two groups. There is the group of those who look back comfortably over the years, knowing that each year has yielded its measure of progress.

And there is the other group—the men who think: “If only I had it to do over again, how much better I could do it.” They look back and say to themselves: “There was the turning; if only I could have seen it in time.” To such men the night brings its bad moments—when they think of what they are and what they might have been.

To increase the number of men who, at fifty, can be satisfied with their careers, is the business of the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

85,000 men enrolled

The Alexander Hamilton Institute was founded ten years ago, with the specific purpose of giving men the all-round knowledge of Modern Business that fits them for executive responsibility.

It does for men in business what the law school does for men in law; or the medical school for men in medicine.

It has only one Course; it offers no training for specialized positions of limited opportunity.

In a ten-year period 85,000 men have enrolled in its Modern Business Course and Service. They are representative of every stratum and phase of business. More than 13,000 are corporation presidents.

Business and educational authority of the highest type are represented in the Institute’s Advisory Council.

This Council consists of Frank A. Vanderbilt, President of the National City Bank of

New York, General Coleman duPont, the well-known business executive; John Hays Hammond, the eminent engineer; Jeremiah W. Jenks, the statistician and economist; and Joseph French Johnson, Dean of the New York University School of Commerce.

The remarkable percentage of college men

Two facts are noteworthy in the Institute’s record. In the first place the average age of the men enrolled with it is slightly over thirty. Not to boys is its appeal, but to mature men, who reach the age when they realize that their careers will be made or marred by the record of the few years just ahead.

The second striking fact is the very large proportion of college men enrolled. Over 33% of them are college graduates.

You, who read this page, may have reached the point in your career where you want to make the next few years yield double progress.

Or you may be the sort of college man to whom younger men are frequently turning for advice.

In either case you owe it to yourself to know something more of the character and achievements of this great educational force.

A free book worth sending for

For the information of college men who are interested in better business the Institute has set aside a certain number of its 112-page book “Forging Ahead in Business.”

It is worth an evening’s careful reading and it is free. The coupon will bring it; send for your copy today.
